DRIVING LICENSE CHECKS ARE PLANNED BY HIGHWAY PATROL

SACRAMENTO, (UP)—The state department of motor vehicles today opened a final drive to induce drivers still holding "good until revoked" drivers licenses to renew the cards.

E. Raymond Cato, chief of the California highway patrol, issued instructions to patrolmen to conduct a series of checks in their respective counties for the purpose of rounding up all such drivers. The checks will be in the form of surprise raids in which all cars will be stopped at designated points and all drivers licenses examined.

Persons found with good until revoked licenses will be given notices of cancellation and instructed to renew them at once. Failure to do so will result in prosecution, Cato said.

COUGARS PLAY AT AUBURN TONIGHT

Student Body Rally Held Thursday Night; Assembly At School This Morning

Apparently sensing unusual possibilities in this year's football team, El Dorado County high school rooters are showing unprecedented enthusiasm as they look forward to the game tonight at Auburn against Placer Union High School.

It will be the first game for the Cougars under the lights and the kickoff is scheduled at eight o'clock. Although the game is of non-league calibre, it is looked upon as an important training engagement for the Cougars whose Mother Lode league schedule will send them, later in the season, into league games under the lights.

The student body staged a downtown rally and demonstration Thursday night and formed a snake dance through the business district with upward of one hundred yelling and singing Cougar rooters taking part.

Following the rally, Chief of Police Ralph Jones said that there had been no instances of rowdism reported and that the students, as far as he had observed, showed a fine spirit.

Friday morning there was a "pop rally" assembly at the school building and indications were that there will be a strong delegation of supporters behind the Cougars when they take the field tonight.

PALL OF WAR FLAMES SPURS FIRE PREVENTION WEEK

National Association Aims At Inspection Of Thirty Million Homes As Major Step To Cut Annual Fire Losses Aggregating $300,000,000

BOSTON—The smoky palls that hang over war-torn Europe and Asia are booming a campaign to make America safe against fire.

The campaign is National Fire Prevention Week, which will be observed this year during the week of October 5th to 11th. The use of fire as an instrument of war against civilian populations is stimulating interest in this annual observance, the National Fire Protection Association reports. The N.F.P.A. annually promotes Fire Prevention Week.

Prime objective of the campaign will be to inspect 30,000,000 American homes for common fire hazards. These hazards, fire reports show, are responsible for most of the $300,000,000 loss exacted by fire annually in this country.

Fire departments will be assisted in making the house to house check by volunteer organizations; while in the rural sections they will be assisted by members of the 4-H Club, Boy Scouts, and similar groups.

Officials of the N.F.P.A. are issuing an appeal to every home owner and housewife throughout the land to assist these agencies in making this check, and also ask that they cooperate with them by acting upon any suggestions they might make relative to eliminating fire hazards.

The N.F.P.A. has also issued eight simple rules for every housewife and home owner to follow in avoiding fires. They are:

"1. Remove all rubbish from cellar and attics to eliminate fuel for any sparks or hot ashes.

"2. Use care in the handling of hot ashes. They should be kept in metal containers. Never mix them with rubbish.

"3. Examine the heating plant for rust holes, cracked firebox, or open joints. Keep stoves a sufficient distance from wood walls where they cannot be knocked over, or overheated the wall, thus causing a smoldering fire.

"4. Clean the chimney annually since this eliminates the possibility of sparks spreading the fire. Beware of dirty chimneys do not draw well.

"5. Consider the roof! Sparks from other chimneys and burning brands are the third largest cause of home fires. Re-roof if necessary with fire-resistant asphalt shingles.

"6. Never use or keep gasoline in the home. Never use inflammable cleaning fluids about the house.

"7. Use extreme care in handling matches. Keep them in a metal box or container, and make sure that they are not within easy reach of the children.

"8. Check all electrical equipment. See that it is in good repair. Never overload the house mains with too many appliances as this might cause the wiring between the partitions to overheat and thus cause a blaze."

MORE LIBERAL TERMS IN FARM LOANS AS AIDE TO DEFENSE PRODUCTION FAVORED BY FARM DEBT ADJUSTMENT BOARD

The conference called by the California Farm Debt Commission at San Jose, for all farmers who have filed all ready under Section 75 of the Bankruptcy Act or those who are seeking aid in meeting growing cost and long standing mortgages or debts, was very well attended.

Efforts to liberalize Farm Credit Administration loans, particularly those of the Santa Clara Valley, termed the most distressed section of permanent crop areas in California were undertaken by the Commission.

Meeting with the Commission were the Heads of the Federal Land Bank, Farm Security Administration, Production and Federal Housing Administration.

Due to the fact that the farmers of America are called upon by Secretary of Agriculture to produce in 1942 sufficient foodstuffs for ten million British and possibly others as well, the Commission feels that additional and easier to obtain farm loans and credit must be provided for, especially in cases of single crop farms, according to Carl Visman, a member of the committee.

Following the general public meeting individual cases were taken up by the Commission and the various Agencies.

The next State Commission meeting will be held in Riverside, November 29, in order to get a clearer understanding of the difficulties the California Citrus growers are having.

SNOW REMOVAL ON SCHEDULE

Priorities May Interfere With Delivery Of Plows; Director Clark Hopeful

SACRAMENTO, (UP)—State public works director Frank M. Clark today reported satisfactory progress has been made in providing necessary buildings and equipment for keeping U. S. highway 50 over Echo Summit open during the winter.

The snow removal plant will consist of four buildings, including a crew bunkhouse, truck shed, boiler house and gasoline and storage house.

More than 40 men are working on the site near the summit. Grading operations have been completed, concrete foundations and footings placed, concrete floor slabs poured and the framing of the bunk house and truck shed is being erected, Clark said.

Plumbing is being roughed in and a steam boiler has been purchased and is scheduled for delivery next week.

"With a normal season and no unexpected delay in the receipt of materials, we will be able to close in the buildings before the first winter storms, Clark said.

Two of the trucks ordered following the Aug. 29 highway commission meeting have been delivered to the highway commission shops in Sacramento. Delivery of the bodies was promised in 10 days if priorities do not interfere. Push plows for the trucks are being made in San Francisco and early delivery is expected.

"Two big rotary plows have been promised in 60 days and here again priority may delay delivery somewhat, but we believe they will arrive in time," Clark said.

235-POUND MULE TAIL BAGGED BY FARM IMPLEMENT MAN

Harry I. Smith, John Deere Tractor and Farm Equipment representative in the Sacramento Valley, revealed this week that he is a champion deer hunter.

Smith believes that he bagged one of the biggest deer of the season. While hunting in Modoc County, near Fall River Mills, he shot a mule tail buck with a 35½ inch wing spread. The antlers had 13 points on the right side and 4½ on left side, and the animal weighed 235 pounds dressed.

It took four shots to down the deer—three practice shots, and on the fourth Smith was really warmed up and that was the end of the deer. The range was about a hundred feet. Smith is very proud of his bag, and wants to hear from anyone who has done better.

TREES SMASH CABINS ON FOREST

State And Federal Agencies Report Small Fires; Woods Travel Subject To Hazards

The period of extreme fire hazard which began early Thursday morning continued through Friday in El Dorado County and state and federal forest agencies each reported one small fire.

Most serious destruction of the period of exceptionally high winds came from trees falling on summer cabins.

Eldorado Forest headquarters received word early Friday afternoon that trees had fallen on two cabins in the Scot's Camp and a third tree had hit the summer home of a Dr. Davidson, on private land, in the vicinity of Phillips Station.

Ranger M. D. Morris, of Pacific District, reported that at the Scot's Camp, one of the cabins "which must have cost about four thousand dollars" was "smashed to splinters." The other cabin was not so seriously smashed, he indicated.

Eldorado Forest reported that trees are down generally all over the forest and that anyone attempting to travel on backwoods roads should be prepared to find travel blocked by fallen trees.

Thursday evening, on Tunnell Hill, east of Georgetown, there was a small fire, attributed to a careless smoker. Under the direction of the fire chief at Georgetown ranger station, the blaze was corralled within half an acre and extinguished.

The State Division of Forestry reported a fire early Friday morning near Melson's Corners, on the south side of the county. Origin of the fire was not known. Quick action brought it under control within an area of about eight acres.

Third Game Of Classic May Be Delayed Until Sunday By Heavy Rain Storm

NEW YORK, (UP)—Two hours before game time and with almost an inch of water over most of Brooklyn's Ebbets Field, Judge Kenneth Landis, baseball's high commissioner, announced that today's third game of the world's series would be postponed because of rain.

Although officials in charge look hopefully for resumption of the play-off for the world's championship tomorrow, there appeared a possibility that continuing storm might delay the third game of the series until Sunday.

Meanwhile, the "hot stove league" gathered here and in Brooklyn to debate the possible advantages or disadvantages of the postponement to the chances of the American League champion Yankees and the National League champion Dodgers, now tied in the series with one game apiece.

Peggy O'Toole, whose parents died after migrating from Dublin to New York, has grown up under the wing of an elderly widow, Mrs. Burke. While a salesgirl in Meredith's Department Store, she becomes acquainted with the store owner's spoiled little granddaughter, Janice Meredith. The child takes a great fancy to her, with the result that old Mr. Meredith and Janice's mother engage Peggy as governess. Peggy learns that Janice's father is dead, but that Mr. Meredith has another son, George, who quarreled with his father and left home several months ago. Meanwhile, she has fallen in love with a young taxi-driver, Jimmie Butler, who has asked her to marry him.

CHAPTER XIV

PEGGY tossed restlessly unable to sleep. Outside, a thunderstorm was raging. The rain beat against the windows, jagged streaks of lightning lit up the room every few seconds, and the thunder roared—great, deafening claps of it. In the midst of this turmoil, the telephone suddenly rang—its jangle faint against the roar of the storm.

Peggy sat up. Who on earth could be calling at this hour? It must be all of one o'clock!

She slipped into her kimono, stumbled out into the hall, and groped in the darkness for the phone.

"Hello... yes, this is she. What's that?... yes, of course I'll come."

"What is it, Peggy?" Grandma Burke called from her room as Peggy hung up.

"It was Mrs. Meredith. The storm has scared Janice into hysterics. She's terrified of thunderstorms. They want me to come and see what I can do with her."

"At this hour of the night!" Grandma protested.

"They're sending the car for me," Peggy explained. "I'll have to go. It seems Janice has been screaming for me—and no one else seems to be able to do anything with her." She sighed.

She dressed hurriedly, and was ready when the car arrived.

"Don't stay awake waiting for me," she called to Grandma as she left. "I may decide to spend the rest of the night with the Merediths!"

As PEGGY entered the Meredith home, she could hear Janice's screams coming from the second floor. She sped up to the child's room. A frightened maid stood aside to let her enter.

On her bed, Janice lay kicking and screaming. At every roll of thunder, her shrieks increased in shrillness.

Bending over her, trying vainly to get her to take some kind of medicine, was the family physician, Dr. Maynard. On the other side of the bed, Janice's mother anxiously hovered. At the foot stood old Mr. Meredith, his face gray.

"Oh, thank you, Miss O'Toole for coming!" Mrs. Meredith said with relief. "We've been distracted! Perhaps you can calm her."

"Here, here, now!" Peggy soothed, sitting down on the bed and gathering the frightened child in her arms. "Why are you afraid of a silly old storm?"

"I don't know—w-w!" Janice wailed, clinging to her.

"Because of the thunder? It's only a noise, Janice."

"Yes—no—oh, I don't know!" The little girl hid her face against Peggy's shoulder.

Peggy patted her gently. "Listen," she said. "when I was a little girl, I used to be afraid of storms too—until my mother told me it was only the little angels rolling barrels up in heaven that made the thunder."

The child lifted her face and stared at Peggy.

"But—but the lightning?" she faltered.

Peggy smiled. "That's when two little angels bump their iron barrels against each other—sparks fly off."

Janice became more interested. Peggy elaborated on her theme. By slow degrees she calmed the child. Instead of screaming at every clap of thunder, began to listen for each one with expectancy. The picture of rolling barrels intrigued her.

God Our Heavenly Father

HIGHLIGHTS ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL (The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for Oct. 5 is Gen. 1:26-28; Ex. 34:4-7; Ps. 103:1-13; Isa. 40:27-31; Matt. 6:24-34; 22:35-38; John 4:24; 14:20-23; Acts 17:24-30; 1 John 1:1-4, the Golden Text being Matt. 6:9, "Our Father who art in heaven, Hallowed be Thy name.")

GOD OUR Heavenly Father is the subject of today's lesson. We have Him revealed to us in the Old Testament, in the very first book, that of Genesis, where it is related that "God created man in His own image, in the image of God created He him: male and female created He them."

Then it adds, "And God blessed them," and made them rulers over all the earth and the living creatures on the earth, and all the herbs and fruits of the earth.

Next we are taken to Moses, who led the children of Israel out of the land of Egypt and to the border of the "land flowing with milk and honey," which he was never to see. The children of Israel, you will remember, were not always grateful to the God who led them forth. They grew weary and frightened in their long wanderings and sometimes lost their faith in God. Then they built images and worshipped them.

Moses was very angry with them several times, and on one such occasion, when he had been on Mt. Sinai conversing with God, he broke the tablets of stone on which were written the ten commandments, but he was ordered to make new ones. So he made two others like the first, and early one morning he took them up into the mountain, as he had been told, "and the Lord descended in a cloud, and stood with him there, and proclaimed the name of the Lord."

Lord is Merciful and Gracious

The Lord proclaimed himself "merciful and gracious, long suffering, and abundant in goodness and truth."

This Lord who talked with Moses on the Mount, is extolled in Psalm 103, which is part of our lesson. It is supposed it was written by David.

"Bless the Lord, O my soul; and all that is within me, bless His holy name."

"Bless the Lord, O my soul, and forget not all His benefits."

Then the psalmist lists the benefits he has received from God, ending in the 13th verse with "Like as a father pitieth his children, so the Lord pitieth them, that fear Him." Like a father—that is a lovely thought of God.

Not as a judge, but as a father that is sorry to see his children suffer, even if it be through their own misconduct, and who pities and forgives them when they call upon Him.

Again in the 40th chapter of Isaiah it is written: "Hast thou not known? hast thou not heard, that the everlasting God, the Lord, the Creator of the ends of the earth, fainteth not, neither is weary? . . . He giveth power to them that faint, and to them that have no might He increaseth strength. . . . They that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength; they shall mount up with wings as eagles; they shall run, and not be weary; and they shall walk, and not faint."

Many Call on God

How many oppressed people in our world today, are calling upon God their Father, and being renewed in the midst of their desolation?

Now our lesson takes us to the New Testament, to the words of Jesus, who further assures us of our Father's love and watchfulness over us. Why do we fret about what we should wear? "Consider the lilies of the field," He tells His disciples, "how they grow; they toil not, neither do they spin."

"And yet I say unto you, That even Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like one of these."

"Wherefore, if God so clothe the grass of the field, which to day is, and to morrow is cast into the oven, shall He not much more clothe you, O ye of little faith?"

The same is true of what we shall eat and drink. "Your Heavenly Father knoweth ye have need of these things," Jesus assures us. "Seek ye first the kingdom of God and His righteousness."

That is the most important thing in life, not money or things that it can buy, but "the Kingdom of God and His righteousness." And finally, which is all the space we have, let us see what Jesus considered the greatest commandments of all for His followers. When a Pharisee, seeking to trap Him, asked Him, "Master, which is the great commandment in the law?" He answered: "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind. This is the first and great commandment."

"And the second is like unto it, Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself."

It sounds simple, doesn't it, to have faith in our Father, God, to love Him with all our hearts, and to love our neighbors as we do ourselves?

NEW DODGE ATTRACTS ATTENTION OF MOTORISTS

"The response of automobile buyers to the announcement of the newest and finest Dodge, one of the first cars to be displayed this year, has been most gratifying," says Phil Frost, Dodge-Plymouth Dealer here.

"Since the first day we put the new model Dodge cars on our sales floors, we have had crowds of people eagerly seeking information and placing orders. They have been enthusiastic about the new and more beautiful lines of the Dodge, the completely restyled interior of the car and the new and more powerful 'Power-Flow' Dodge engine with All-Fluid Drive.

"This new engine develops 105 h.p. as against the former 91 h.p. The greater power is achieved with notable gasoline economy. Extensive mileage tests are said to show that while the new engine furnishes 15 per cent more power, it gives its greater mileage on less gasoline and without calling for the use of other than 'regular' brands of engine fuel.

"Furthermore, whereas increased engine power ordinarily shows performance gains especially at the higher speeds, the new Dodge engine shows faster acceleration, greater pulling power and further improved fuel economy throughout the normal driving range."

CALIFORNIA FARM PARADE

By United Press

If a big income is good news, then we have a lot of good news today.

Official figures show that American farmers received a total cash income of $1,114,000,000 during August. It's hard to visualize just how much money that is. But a little mathematics shows that the income last month was approximately 50 per cent larger than during the same period a year earlier. And the income this August was the largest recorded during any August since the world war.

Also encouraging to many people is the fact that the increased income resulted despite reduced government payments. This August, the government paid farmers $20,000,000—or less than half the amount paid out during August of 1940.

Yet, there's one little item that tends to dull the brightness of those figures. Much of the increased income this August resulted from the Government loan on wheat. Uncle Sam handed out $200,000,000 in wheat loans during August. This compares with only $60,000,000 last year.

Other factors, of course, also contributed to the increased August income. These include far better prices, and improved consumer demand.

Up until the first of this month, farmers' cash income from marketing and government payments totaled nearly $6,500,000,000. This was 20 per cent larger than a year ago. And by the end of the year—says the agriculture department—the cash income should total about $10,700,000,000—the largest since 1929.

It looks as if farmers already are spending much of the money that has been pouring in during recent weeks.

The commerce department says that general merchandise sales in rural areas show a sharp increase. During August, for instance, sales rose 24 per cent.

Part of this is attributed to a rush to buy goods from the spring mail order catalogues. The fall and winter catalogues now list many prices that are substantially higher than the old prices.

All the figures on the 1940 census haven't been compiled yet, but already the government is beginning a new census.

This time, the government's collecting data on farm trucks. About one million farmers will be asked to fill out a questionnaire about their trucks—the make, kind of body, capacity, and the time of year the trucks are need most on farms.

This information is being sought by the highway traffic advisory committee to the war department.

VOLUNTEERS IN WORK FOR SELECTIVE SERVICE TOTAL 15,000

SACRAMENTO, (U.P.)—Brigadier General Joseph O. Donovan today paid tribute to the patriotism of the many civilians who have been serving without pay in the work incident to the induction of men into our new peace time army.

Donovan's announcement that these 15,000 workers were inducting a yearly total of 800,000 men into the army led to a recent checking of selective service personnel in California, following the establishment of new committees for the purpose of securing re-employment for men who satisfactorily complete their training period. This check-up revealed an increase of more than 1000 volunteer workers.

Lee Hill has been assigned to special fire duty on the Stanislaus Forest and left early Friday morning for that section.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN BUSINESS

BY JOHN CRADDOCK

SUBCONTRACTING—As defense production grows ever greater, it keeps demanding more and more of the materials non-defense industries need to keep going. Big non-defense industries, for the most part, can switch over, to defense work. Smaller ones can't. This has been deepening the peaks and valleys of employment, causing worker migrations, "priorities unemployment." The action of Floyd B. Odum, director of the new OPM contract-distribution division, in calling upon 56 companies holding major defense contracts to "subcontract on a large scale," marks intensification of effort to iron out those "wrinkles in our economic map." He called on the companies to assign their "ablest executives" to this problem. It's understood he plans to expand vastly the number of field offices of the old Defense Contract Service, eventually having 150 of them. At present there are 30. These 56 companies now hold about 75 per cent of the defense supply contracts. More "clinics" like that held in New York last week, in which prime contract holders get together with "little fellows" who want to get subcontracts, are expected throughout the country.

WASHINGTON—Defense officials here, in allocating the coming year's auto production, have been interested in releasing the greatest possible amount of raw materials for defense production. One answer to this problem appeared recently when a Washington columnist, Ernest K. Lindley, pointed out that "obviously, the materials available for automobiles would make more units of transportation if production were centered in the lighter models." He quoted figures compiled by Joseph W. Frazer, president of Willys-Overland, showing that the savings in metals alone would amount to 227,000 tons this year if each company were to manufacture only its lightest series of cars. "The figures indicate," Mr. Lindley observed, "that... output can be readjusted to cut the consumption of critical materials without depriving the public of motor transportation. Almost certainly more will be heard in the coming months of simplification in the automobile industry, and concentration on the lighter, if not the lightest, models."

BITS O' BUSINESS—Fall shopping upturn (is it such were needed) sent nation's department store sales for week ending September 20 up 12 per cent, best gain in several weeks... Men's suits next spring will run to fewer fancy colors and distinctive weaves, may be single-breasted, with unpleated, zipperless trousers—all on account of scarcity of materials and need for clothing army and navy—meanwhile fall sales running 20 per cent ahead of last year, despite price rises, of which there will be more in coming months... Munsingwear operations at highest level in many years, due to 20 per cent gain in civilian sales and $1,000,000 worth of army-navy underwear orders... A similar picture in a much different field: Minneapolis-Moline, the power implement firm, has defense orders totaling $11,000,000—on top of 52 of them in the first month!

of a 25 per cent rise in regular agricultural equipment sales.

NAZI EDGE CUT—The ability of American defense industry to even up the eight-year head start of the Nazis is borne out by a report last week on the progress of this country's new synthetic rubber industry. Comparison in this field is especially pertinent, for in Germany necessity has driven government-subsidized research and production of synthetic rubber at high speed for many years. It was only last year that the first American-made synthetic rubber tires reached the open market—B. F. Goodrich's Ameripol. Yes under a $2,750,000 contract announced last week by the Defense Plant Corporation, a single American company will soon have a synthetic rubber capacity almost equal to Germany's at the start of the war. It is the Hycar Chemical Company, which was organized 13 months ago by the pioneer rubber firm and Phillips Petroleum Company to make synthetic rubber from the petroleum gas, butadiene. By the end of next year, Hycar expects to be producing man-made rubber at the rate of 17,000 long tons a year. The Department of Commerce estimates that Germany was producing 20,000 tons a year in 1939. The Hycar output will be 10 times that of the whole United States for last year.

THINGS TO WATCH FOR—Fluorescent lamps in the shapes of plates or discs, rather than the long tubes, have been made possible by a new process, and are expected to be suitable for mounting in conventional ceiling outlets or floor lamps for homes... a new floor finish called penetrex which is said to enter into combination with the wood fiber itself, forming an especially hard and tough finish because it's in the wood rather than just on top of it... an "improved and simplified converter" by RCA which picks up FM (frequency modulation) broadcast signals and converts them into amplitude modulation waves than can be tuned in by a conventional long-wave receiving set... "left-handed" checkbooks—in which the stubs are on the right-hand side so southpaw writers can make entries more easily; the St. Joseph Bank of South Bend, Ind., thought up this innovation and had calls for 52 of them in the first month!

Why do people brush their teeth?

You might say that people brush their teeth to keep them clean—or to make them sparkle—or because their dentists told them to.

But, few people brushed their teeth until advertising told them it was important.

In more ways than most people realize, advertising has promoted health and happiness in the course of selling its wares.

And at the same time, by increasing business, it has helped make more jobs—so more people can enjoy the things it offers for sale.

It's a matter of history that the above illustrated car was driven through the streets of Rochester, N. Y., by George R. Selden, in 1877.

The machine is said to have worked perfectly on a "revolutionary new oil" originated by Hiram Everet, and produced by the refiners of Mobil Oil. Despite the muted question as to who originated the auto, many give credit to Selden as the inventor.

SHIP AND AIRCRAFT BUILDING LEAD INDUSTRIAL PRODUCTION FOR AUGUST AND SEPTEMBER; CONSUMER BUYING UP FOR AUGUST

Industrial production in the Twelfth District continued to expand during August and September, and the advance was accompanied by further increases in factory employment and payrolls which again established new records. Disregarding a large seasonal increase in workers at fruit and vegetable canneries, the principal gains in August in the actual number of employed workers occurred in the aircraft and ship building industries, as in other months of the past year or more.

New private residential building declined slightly in August although some seasonal expansion has been customary in that month. From April through July this class of construction held unusually stable at slightly above $30,000,000 a month but fell off to around $29,300,000 in August, the decline suggesting that builders are experiencing difficulties in obtaining materials. With new defense construction continuing in large volume and highlighted by a contract of $63,000,000 entered into by the Defense Plant Corporation for construction of magnesium plants in Nevada, value of nonresidential building initiated during the month exceeded the large July total and amounted to over $107,000,000.

Consumer buying at district department stores advanced sharply in August, seasonal factors considered, value of sales exceeding that of a year earlier by 34 per cent. Preliminary data indicate, however, that this large gain was not retained in September. Sales of hostelry increased spectacularly, departments selling women's and children's hose showing an increase of 116 per cent over a year earlier. The rush to buy this item reflected fears of future shortages and was touched off by recent international developments interpreted generally as threatening to halt imports of raw silk. These same fears stimulated active buying of other silk and rayon goods. Consumer buying of major household equipment, which had been particularly large in recent months, rose abruptly further in August, the increase partly being induced by the announcement of regulations to restrict to some extent the terms of installment contracts, effective September 1. Sales of departments handling refrigerators, washers, ironers, stoves, vacuum cleaners and the like were 99 per cent above a year earlier.

New passenger car sales declined in July and were again lower in August, a customary seasonal development at this time of year when assembly plants are getting into production on new models. New car registrations in August, however, were only slightly higher than in August 1940, compared with a year-period change in May and June combined of 63 per cent.

Twelfth District cash farm income in July, the latest month for which complete data are available, totaled $133,600,000, up 38 per cent from a year earlier. Prices paid farmers for their products averaged approximately 30 per cent higher than in July, 1940. Further increases in prices occurred in August but, in general, advances in that month were somewhat smaller than in the preceding two months.

* Demand for bank credit for commercial and industrial purposes increased considerably further in the five weeks ending September 24, loans of that character reported by district city banks increasing $18,000,000 to $468,000,000. The relatively sharp increase in these loans was partly seasonal in character but also represented a continuation

THE Book Mark

By JANE VOILES

Although Havana is only two hours by plane from the United States, ways of living are so remote from our American way, that it could well be on another planet. Take the question of parking—on the even days of the month you park on the left hand side of the street, on the odd, you use the right. If you forget the date, you get a ticket. Cuban ladies dislike wearing glasses (perhaps they have heeded Dorothy Parker's classic lines about men never making passes at girls who wear glasses) but longnettes are an everyday equipment. The Cubans have a pat name for them "impertinentes." One might, however, question the remoteness when a familiar tune assails the ear. You are told it is the current favorite "Barrilito" but you recognize it as your old friend back home "the Beer Barrel Polka."

All this apropos of a new book by two smart girls, Consuelo Hermei and Marjorie May, "Havana Manana" which is a guide to Cuba and the Cubans. You can go to Havana by air, sea or train. Information is so detailed that even the fare by plane from Sacramento to Miami is included for your convenience; round trip $302.76. There is an additional fare for crossing the gulf of Mexico. You are warned about the tedious process of customs inspection—inspectors are always curious about American luggage especially if one carries Gauguin print nighties as these two up-to-the-minute girls did.

Pros and cons and prices of the Havana hotels are discussed to a nicety. About clothes—men can wear vivid trunks on the beach and women can play siren-on-the-sands, on the street, however, it is best to be conservative. Sartorially speaking the Cuban women of the upper class have a tangible air of elegance about them, even though their make-up leans to the feminine-fatale side. The mantilla epoch hasn't vanished entirely; when hats are worn they are of the gay and eye-catching variety. Fans are used with coquetry, say our writers and lacy parasols excite admiring comment. Incidentally, it is quite permissible to forget about gloves.

"Exciting" is the Hermei-May favorite word for Cuba. Color is exciting to Cubans. You'll not find many subdued half-tones in Havana, it is the city that has a perpetual, fiesta-like appearance.

You are admonished not to bewail the lack of corn beef and cabbage in Havana—be open-minded and try the Cuban standby "arroz con pollo" (chicken with saffron rice, peas and pimientos—cooked in a casserole). Sea food fans fare well in Havana as it is the home of the giant crawfish and the mammoth crab but pork is the staff of life. You'll find it flavoring almost every dish. Seasonings are always subtly blended, never crudely as in some of the Mexican cookery. You see of the upward trend in business borrowing from banks of the past year or more which has resulted in an increase of $120,000,000 since September 25, 1940. Other classes of loans reported by district city banks showed little net change in the five weeks ending September 24, but investments in United States Government obligations increased $33,000,000. Accompanying this increase in earning assets, deposits expanded further, the increase occurring entirely in demand accounts.

MUSIC SERIES TICKETS IN BIG DEMAND AT SACRAMENTO

Season tickets for the Sacramento Music Series are available at the Series box office in Weinstock-Lubin's.

This announcement was made yesterday by Ware and Hazelton, managers of the Music Series, for the approximate 3,000 subscribers in Northern California. The total reservations already made for the Music Series this year is far more than 2,000, according to Louise M. Flaa, box office treasurer.

Beginning with "Rigoletto" October 11, the Music Series and greater series combined will include the following: "Madame Butterfly," October 25; Grace Moore, November 10; The Ballet Russe, January 27; San Francisco Symphony, with Oscar Levant, March 13; Vladimir Horowitz, pianist, March 18; Lily Pons, coloratura soprano, April 11; and the final attraction to be announced.

how prejudiced in favor of Havana these girls really are.

If you would like to see some of the night life, in vulgar parlance "make whoopee", our guides can give you cards and spades. They place before you a seductive list of night clubs, they discourse on the relative merits of the rumba and the conga but they also tell you there are places where orchestras play languorous waltzes to which you dance in the magic of the moonlight. If you prefer the seamy side, you can visit the roadside honky-tonks called Fritas, which happens to be Cuban slang for Hamburger.

The shopping hints are worth taking to heart. Don't, they plead, buy expatriate Mexican hats and castanets. Look around for something a little more original. What everyone buys in Cuba is rum—Bacardi and Havana Club are famous the world over. Didn't these girls find the movie actor Cary Grant replenishing his stock at their favorite merchant. Perfumes, imported and domestic, are cheaper. Alligator is another product not to be overlooked and remember Havana cigars. If you belong to the "dress-up" school, you can buy a rumba costume for your light moments.

The girls bring their gay, little book to a close with two serious bits of advice to men that we can't resist quoting: "Don't take out Cuban girls of good family without a chaperone. Don't take out Cuban girls more than once a week unless your intentions are serious."

STATE MAY SEIZE EGG SHIPMENTS LACKING PROPER LABELS

SACRAMENTO, (UP)—The state department of public health is authorized to seize shipments of out-of-state egg products which are not properly certified, Atty. Gen. Earl Warren ruled today in response to an inquiry from Dr. Bertram Brown, state public health director.

The state agricultural code requires that egg products prepared outside of California must bear a certificate of an authority "representative of any federal or state department that is authorized to inspect such foods" stating that they were made from eggs fit for human consumption and in accord with sanitary laws of the state or territory of origin.

We have received the announcement of a book that will be of interest to our section of the state: "GHOST TOWN" by G. Ezra and Beatrice Dane. It is the story of our neighboring town of Columbia in its heyday and of the people that helped to give it color. "The authors," says the announcement, "have hit upon the happy device of rolling all their narrators into one Old-timer who sits at the crossroads and speaks with the voice of the ghost town itself. He tells you about the bandits and bad men; Joaquin Murieta and the blood-thirsty Three-Fingered Jack, of Pat Shine, the hunter who "once shot a lady out of season." Preserving the robust spirit of the gold rush days this is no scholarly work alone—though there is plenty of hidden scholarship beneath its pages, it is a colloquial history that will take its place as an important book in the field of Californians.
